

#MyVoice: How is communication between military member and family re: services?

■ Good / Great

■ Not good / intermittent

Great! He is always sending me emails from the MFRC just in case I didn't see or get it.

He does his best, but often forgets to pass things on to me.

My son is 24 and says...mom you always tell me..he is clueless lol

Laughable. I hear things from other spouses before I ever hear it from my husband. He hides information from me that he thinks will upset me...

I find that pre-deployment it's hard to get information from him. To be fair, his brain deploys weeks before he physically leaves so many times he just isn't going to remember to pass on whatever info he may have received.
